The Ohio State University is committed to building a diverse faculty and staff for employment and promotion to ensure the highest quality workforce, to reflect human diversity, and to improve opportunities for minorities and women. The university embraces human diversity and is committed to equal employment opportunity, affirmative action, and eliminating discrimination. This commitment is both a moral imperative consistent with an intellectual community that celebrates individual differences and diversity, as well as a matter of law.

Discrimination against any individual based upon protected status, which is defined as age, ancestry, color, disability, gender identity or expression, genetic information, military status, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status, is prohibited.

Definitions

Term	Definition
Affirmative Action	Designed to help eliminate effects of past and present discrimination. It is a process in which employers identify areas of improvement, set goals, and take positive steps to enhance opportunities for protected class members - individuals with disabilities, minorities (Asian/Pacific Islander, Black, Hispanic, Native American Indian), qualified veterans (Vietnam era veterans, special disabled veterans, campaign badge veterans, and recently separated veterans), and women. Affirmative Action focuses on hiring, training, and promoting qualified protected class members where they are underrepresented.
Applicant	An individual who has applied for a specific position at Ohio State.
Discrimination	Discrimination (disparate treatment and disparate impact) occurs when an adverse employment action is taken and is based upon a protected status. Disparate treatment occurs when an employee suffers less favorable treatment than others because of the protected status. Disparate impact occurs when an employment policy, although neutral on its face, adversely impacts persons in a protected status.
Equal Employment Opportunity	All persons regardless of color, national origin, race, religion, sex, or veteran status shall have equal access to positions in the public service, limited only by their ability to do the job.
Harassment	Verbal, non-verbal or physical conduct constitutes harassment if it is based on a person's protected status and creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work or academic environment that unreasonably interferes with work or academic performance or negatively affects an individual's employment or academic opportunities. Harassment can occur between any individuals associated with the university, e.g., an employee and a supervisor; coworkers; faculty members; a faculty, staff member, or student employee and a customer, vendor, or contractor; or a student and a faculty member. Ohio State is committed to providing a workplace that is free of harassment based on age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status.
Protected Class and Protected Status	Protected class is defined by federal law/executive order. Protected status is identified by the university and extends beyond those groups defined by law, to include gender identity or expression and sexual orientation.
