Ask your manager about additional tasks that are specific to your college, department, or role.

The New Employee Onboarding webpage that we refer you to as a web resource is intentionally similar to this checklist.

Before You Start Checklist

Web Resource: Before You Start and New Employee Orientation

Set Up Your Ohio State digital identity, email, and BuckeyePass

You will use many different systems to accomplish your work and manage your employee profile. The key to accessing them is activating your digital identity, including email address, and BuckeyePass (aka “Duo”) authentication.

Instructions

- Check your email for a message from Ohio State Office of Technology and Digital Innovation (OTDI) that contains your lastname.# (i.e., buckeye.1870)
- Activate your account and set up your email: my.osu.edu

Helpful Tip for Med Center Employees

Medical Center employees have both an Ohio State email address and a medical center email address. Please link the two emails and forward your Ohio State email address to your medical center email address by logging in to my.osu.edu and clicking “Change Email Delivery”.

Talk to Your Manager

As you begin, communicate regularly with your manager. These ongoing conversations are essential to keep you informed, on track, and developing in your career journey at Ohio State. Your manager is your first stop for questions or concerns.

Instructions

- Discuss your start date, time, and first-day activities.

  Important: New Employee Orientation on the morning of your first day is virtual. Find out if your manager wants you to attend orientation from your work location on a work computer, from your home with personal equipment, etc.

- Discuss where and to whom to report on the first day. Get information on what to bring the first day, parking and dress code.

- Discuss your technology needs and requirements.

- Identify any activities that may need to occur prior to your first day (e.g., obtain employee ID).

Review Benefits Information

As part of your total rewards package, Ohio State is proud to provide access to high-quality benefits to support your health and financial goals. There is a 30-day deadline to enroll in many of your benefits, and you need to make decisions regarding mandatory retirement plans in your first 120 days of hire or eligibility.

Instructions

- Review the Benefits Overview for new hires

- Watch videos about the robust package of total rewards that are a part of working at Ohio State.

- We strongly encourage you to attend a live webinar the week you start. Refer to your welcome letter for details. These workshops are offered twice every orientation week. You can attend one two weeks after your orientation if you prefer.

Helpful Tip

You can select benefits in Workday before your start date. However, your health benefits, if you choose to enroll in Ohio State’s plan, do not begin until your first day.
Go to your Onboarding Portal in Workday

Onboarding items have been assigned to you in Workday, our cloud-based employee management system. You may work on these tasks before your first day if you wish.

Instructions

- Go to Workday: workday.osu.edu
- Enroll in benefits (you can do this after you start if you prefer)
- Provide or update personal and contact information
- Set up direct deposit (payment election). Note: Direct deposit is the only option at the university. If you don’t sign up for direct deposit, you are automatically assigned a pay card. More information at Payroll Services.
- Set up tax withholding
- See and access your required training through BuckeyeLearn

Obtain a Parking Pass (if needed)

Ohio State parking lots and garages require a parking pass. Parking is managed by CampusParc. Ask your manager or team members about their parking experience and what surface lot or parking garage they use.
